Reds Can't Persuade Residents of Peiping To Eat Fewer Noodles

TOKYO, Japan, Sept. 15 (CDN).

Chinese Communists have met with dismal failure in their attempt to persuade Peiping residents to eat fewer noodles, according to Edwin L. O'Brien, Hartford, Conn., engineer.

Mr. O'Brien, who spent three years in China battling Chinese indifference and corruption to set up factories for the manufacture of farm implements, recently made his way out of Red China by way of Tientsin.

Because of a flour shortage in grain-eating North China, the Communists tried to talk Peiping people into eating substitutes for noodles, O'Brien said.

However, the noodle-loving Peipingers have shown determined resistance.

"Their attitude is that they have been eating noodles for 3,000 years and they propose to go on eating noodles for 3,000 years more."

Starvation Reduced.

The American engineer, who has no regard for the Nationalists and doesn't like the Communists, had these observations to make about life in Communist China:

"Fewer people are starving to death in North China than at any time in recent years. But a lot of people aren't eating as well as they did."

"Which means that distribution of food has been equalized. The rich merchants can be identified as the dirtiest, raggedest people on the streets, because it isn't popular to be rich any more."

"Business is dead. Manufacture of luxury goods is being discouraged. Silversmiths are being told to turn out shoes."

Collectors Use Guns.

"The Communists aren't shooting people, at least not in Peiping. They are merely taxing the rich out of existence. Communist 'tax collectors' with Tommy guns visit night clubs and restaurants, survey the house and carry away 70 per cent of the take in a gunny-sack."

"The Communists are refreshing to deal with, in a lugubrious sort of way. The manager of the Wagons-Lits Hotel was ready with estimates on rent when the Communists came in. He had purposely prepared an outrageous figure in the hope of discouraging them, in case they offered to pay anything at all."

"When the Communist agent said the price for two floors was all right, the manager asked, 'Don't you want to go back and consult your boss?' So the agent did, and came back the next day saying the price was okay."

"Weak and shaken, the manager tottered out of his office. It was the first time in his life he had made a deal with a Chinese without haggling."

Rickshas Still in Use.

"Although the Communists have abolished rickshas in the rest of the country they control, because it is undignified for one man to be a beast of burden for another, they haven't in Peiping. This is probably because ricksha boys and dancing girls offer the best intelligence system in the world."

"The Communists have taken over Peiping universities and abolished all previously required subjects as 'instruments of reactionary American imperialism.' Now the only required subjects are Marxism, Leninism and Stalinism."

Streetcars Hit Peak in '17

The peak of electric streetcar development in the United States came in 1917 when more than 80,000 street railway cars were operated on 45,000 miles of track.
